WHAT IS MICRO CAPSULE TECHNOLOGY?

Microcapsule technology is a method used to impart special properties and functionality to textile products by integrating small microscopic capsules. These capsules can often contain active ingredients, flavour, colour or other substances. When micro capsules are applied to the textile surface or added to yarns, they can release their effects over time.

Micro capsule technology traps rose extracts in microscopic capsules, allowing the active ingredients to be slowly released into the skin. In this way, your skin continuously benefits from the refreshing and nourishing effect of rose throughout the night.

Why rose flavoured skin care with microcapsule technology?

The rose is traditionally known as the queen of all flowers, which is represented by its appealing and alluring scent.

The rose is the number one fragrance used for perfumes, as it's sweet but not too overpowering. Its scent is said to soothe negative emotions and can reinforce memory.

It carries the soothing aroma of rose on your skin throughout the night.

- Micro capsule technology preserves the effect of active ingredients for a long time.
- It supports the regeneration process of your skin and provides a vibrant and fresh appearance.
- Dermatologically tested, safe and effective care.
- It provides a dreamy beauty experience with the romantic and refreshing scent of rose.
